OF HIGHWAY DEP'T

Assistant Dist. Att'y Charges
He Also Failed to Halt
Macing

WAS IN EARLE CABINET

Is First of Twelve Democrats
To Go On Trial In State

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, June 13 — The prosecution today launched its opening address in the trial of former State Highway Secretary, Roy E. Brownmiller, accused of misconduct in office.

Assistant Dauphin County District Attorney Earl V. Compton charged that Brownmiller knowingly permitted the padding of payrolls, failed to halt macing of state employees and "unlawfully and maliciously permitted the waste and misuse of public funds."

Brownmiller, a member of former Governor Earle's Cabinet, was the first of 12 Democrats, indicted by the Dauphin County Grand Jury, to go on trial. He is under indictment in Luzerne County on the same charges, together with 45 other persons.

"The Commonwealth will show," charged the prosecution, "that Brownmiller distributed funds among various districts for highway use. We will show that in June 1938 some $40,000 was allocated for Luzerne County."

"Beginning in September 1938, we will show that there was a large increase in the number of employees on the state highway payrolls, but he (Brownmiller) did nothing except to tell the district engineer to see to it that it did not go too far."

"We will show that he was told that the budget is being greatly overdrawn, that there were 9,000 employees at work. We will show that he was informed that 9,000 men was too large and too wasteful a number."

Compton charged that work rolls were increased through cards bearing the signature of district engineer John Conlin, and issued to persons "having political connection."

"These cards were made available by Conlin to political leaders in each legislative district of Luzerne County," went on Compton. "We will further show that Conlin issued orders no one without a card was to be given employment."

The Commonwealth said it would attempt to prove that Brownmiller was advised in a district engineers' report that to continue employment of thousands up to Election Day last November would require an additional allocation of $1043,000.

"We will show that on October 26, the defendant in writing directed his subordinates to transfer the sum of $1,043,000," Compton said.

"When the highway payrolls came November 15th, it was shown there were 20,000 employees, that 6,000 were fraudulent and fictitious, including names of school children who continued to attend school, and of coal miners who continued to work in mines."

STRONG "MINERAL AXIS"

EUGENE, Ore. — (INS) — A more potent line than the Rome-Berlin axis is the trans-Atlantic "mineral axis" which extends from the eastern part of the United States to England and France, stated Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the University of Oregon geology department. "The axis will have more to do with victory in the next World War than any other factor," stated Dr. Smith. "The distribution of minerals in the axis gives the democracies control of about 70 per cent of the world's supply of minerals necessary for warfare."

TO EXHUME BODY OF GIRL
SLAIN BY TROOPER'S GUN

Autopsy To Be Performed To Determine If Joan Stevens
Was "Mistreated"

STATE REVERSES STAND

MAUCH CHUNK, June 13 — (INS) — The body of 14-year-old Joan Stevens of Nesquehoning, slain by six bullets from a State Trooper's pistol last Monday, was to be exhumed today for an autopsy to determine if she had been "mistreated," District Attorney Albert Heimbach announced.

Reversing his earlier stand, the Carbon County prosecutor ordered the exhumation so that a "thorough examination" of the girl's riddled body can be made. Joan's parents, who previously had rejected an autopsy, readily gave consent, according to Heimbach.

"The public feeling is that an autopsy would clear persistent rumors that prevail," Prosecutor Heimbach explained. "Since the parents' consent is obtained, a court order will be unnecessary."

Meanwhile at Harrisburg, Maj. Lynn G. Adams, State Police Commissioner, announced that Corp. Benjamin Franklin, the girl's slayer, has been relieved of active duty pending presentation of the case to the October Grand Jury. Franklin said he shot the Stevens girl when she threatened him with a toy pistol as he was seeking information she assertedly possessed about a proposed "bank holdup."

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Thursday at eight p. m., the Bucks County Agricultural Conservation Association will show a moving picture, "The River," at the Nockamixon High School Building, Ferndale.

This picture strikingly portrays the destruction by erosion of the most fertile soil that is largely caused by ruthless exploitation of our natural resources.

This picture has won wide acclaim in the State of Pennsylvania. There will be no admission charge or collection.

For the first time in the history of the Doylestown schools, 83 pupils and 29 teachers underwent X-ray examinations at a chest clinic conducted in the school building.

Dr. S. J. Dickey, chief of tuberculosis clinics of the Department of Public Health, who was in charge of the X-ray unit, which visited the County Seat school from 9 until 3 o'clock, pointed out that all students who had had the tuberculosis test and were positive in reaction took the test. Athletes of the school were also given the X-ray examination.

Mrs. Thelma B. W. Brudenell, the school nurse, was particularly gratified at the response of the teachers and the pupils in the Doylestown schools in submitting to the X-ray examination.

"More teachers underwent the X-ray test in the Doylestown schools than in any other I have visited thus far," said Dr. Dickey.

Mrs. Brudenell said reports of the examinations will be made to the family physicians and teachers and students may obtain the results of the X-ray plates from their physician.

"All information is referred to the family physician," said Mrs. Brudenell, who explained the Department of Public Health will be unable to cope with the thousands of inquiries from individuals who took the test.

Pupils of New Hope and Upper Southampton schools also took the test.

At a meeting of the Hartzell-Crouthamel Post, No. 280, of the American Legion, in Fraternity Temple, Perkaskie, plans were made to send two Perkaskie youths to the Key-stone Boys' State Camp, sponsored by the American Legion, at Indiantown Gap, from July 16 to July 26, inclusive.

Common and preferred stocks valued at $15,000 were reported stolen from a glove compartment in the automobile of Elmer Mohn, a Solebury township Summer resident.

Mohn, a member of the firm of Mohn Brothers, Inc., millinery manufacturers with a factory in Reading, lives in New Jersey but has a Summer home on the Green Hill road, near the intersection of the Carversville road.

According to Private Fred Kohler, of the Doylestown sub-station of Pennsylvania Motor Police, who was assigned to the case, Mohn left some stock certificates in the glove compartment of his car last Thursday night. The car was parked in the lane leading to his Solebury township home and the glove compartment was locked by Mohn.

The robbery was discovered when Mohn found that the glove compartment on the instrument board had been jimmied open. He immediately reported the loss to the Motor Police.

Mohn told Private Kohler that the theft included the following stocks, all an issue of the Mohn Brothers, Inc.:

Brown Hails New Department

Harrisburg, June 13 — For the first time in history, the Department of Commerce has been woven into Pennsylvania's governmental pattern, and its creation was hailed today by its first secretary, Richard P. Brown, of Philadelphia, as the "shot in the arm" needed to stimulate business recovery.

Brown appointed by Governor Arthur H. James to induce new industries into the State, while inducing those already here to remain and expand, declared that setting up of the new Department has had a "tremendous effect on the attitude of business in Pennsylvania."

The new Commerce Department, he said, has inspired Pennsylvania business with "new confidence."

Kidnapped by Gunmen

Pittsburgh, June 13 — Two gunmen last night kidnapped and robbed a Vandergrift, Pa., man, left him stranded on a lonely road without his trousers, and fled in the direction of Pittsburgh in his automobile, city police reported today.

One of the gunmen, according to chief of police Ralph W. McIntyre, of Vandergrift, answered to the description of John W. Matonak, 20, who escaped yesterday from Rockview State Penitentiary near Bellefonte.

Matonak, according to Rockview officials, escaped with John Pymak, 23, of Russelltown. Matonak was serving four to eight years for larceny.

The kidnapped man was H. Claire Reese, a former orchestra leader.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

After Him The Deluge?

Washington, June 12. AS the appropriations for this session of Congress steadily mount, fear of inflation rises again in the country. Anyone who realistically views the facts is bound to ask himself, "What's to stop it?"

FROM the beginning of the first spending drive in 1933 that fear has been present in the minds of thoughtful men. And no one did more to put it there than Mr. Roosevelt himself in that year before his election when he warned against the national danger in deficit financing and the bankruptcy threat of an unbalanced budget and a pyramided debt. When the condition of the Treasury today is compared with its condition when Mr. Roosevelt felt and voiced his alarm, the inertia of the people can be accounted for only upon the ground that they have been numbed by the New Deal propaganda and cannot be aroused short of actual disaster.

—O—
YET, in six years the fantastic sum of $22,000,000,000 has been added to the debt and Federal finances are definitely out of control. Last Thursday, while Washington was welcoming their Britannic Majesties, the Senate, without consideration beyond a five-minute discussion, voted overwhelmingly to extend the subsidized slum clearance-home building program to rural areas. The method by which this was done consisted in the insertion under clause of an amendment into a bill to add $800,000,000 to the building authorization of the United States Housing

COUNCIL RULES
ASHES MUST BE PLACED ALONG CURB

Residents of Chestnut and Elm Streets Told To Comply

SEWINGPROJECTREPORT

Council Passes Ordinance In Conformity With New State
Anti-Fireworks Ordinance

Borough council decided last night that residents of Chestnut street and Elm street should place their ashes along the curb line in front of their residences, instead of in the alleys in the rear of their premises. This action was taken when a communication from the authorized ash collector, Albert Paul, informed council that it was impossible for him to get his truck into the narrow alley between these two streets.

A report from the sewing project showed that 3,275 garments had been distributed to residents of Bucks County. Of this number 1710 had been distributed to residents of Bristol and 398 to residents of Bristol Township.

It was stated that beginning July 1st a different system for the distribution of garments would be put into effect, whereby the sponsor will select a certain percentage of needy persons to receive garments.

During May there were 1329 garments distributed from the project.

A communication was received from the Borough of Quakertown inviting the burgess, president of council and other representatives of the borough to attend the dedication ceremonies of a new borough hall which will take place Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. The invitation was referred to Burgess Anderson.

Permission was requested to hang an awning at the Clott grocery store, Pond and Lafayette streets. The request was referred to street and highway committee with power to act.

Council approved a contract with Edward Cummons for the removal of the air diaphane and piping from the brick stack at the Bristol water works for the sum of $15.

Senator Howard I. James, the borough solicitor, was present and submitted an ordinance in conformity with the recent anti-fireworks law enacted by the state legislature. (This ordinance appears elsewhere in this issue.) The rules of council were suspended and the ordinance passed without a dissenting vote.

Councilman DeGroot inquired concerning compensation for firemen injured in the line of duty. Mr. DeGroot was informed that the borough was insured and that such persons should notify the proper authorities. The matter was referred to the fire committee to determine if an application had been made.

Police committee reported nine arrests made during the month. Two doors were found open, 76 lodgers given shelter, seven are and seven incandescent lights were reported out. Seventeen were fined for parking violations and three discharged. Twenty-seven dogs were caught and destroyed.

Councilmen absent were Dr. J. Fred Wagner and Evan B. Vandergrift.

Burgess Clifford L. Anderson opened the session and asked for nominations for a president pro tem. William Warner was chosen.

A SHIP WITHOUT A PORT

No episode in the record of Nazi persecution of the Jew is more poignant with heartbreak and utter hopelessness than the wanderings of the liner St. Louis through the Islands of the Caribbean—a ship loaded with human freight and futilely seeking any port where it could discharge its unwelcome cargo.

Americans are appalled at the spectacle of a shipload of people being treated as if they were cattle, and horror is not lessened by the knowledge that the plight of those aboard the St. Louis is hardly more dire than that of thousands who remain in Germany.

But the aimlessness of this voyage, the absence of any plan for the relief of the ship's passengers and the brutalizing effect of their situation on all humanity are all factors deriving from the general problem.

This kind of thing must continue to happen until the states which look with compassion on the Jew in Germany are able to present a workable procedure, and a general solution. Such a plan may be had ultimately in terms of large scale colonization on lands not now populated, but fit for agriculture. The place must be found, and then the means. The cost will be tremendous.

Either civilization should prepare for such an undertaking, or it should hold its protest against such inadequacies as the one now occurring. Count Mettelich once said that indignation is not a political attitude. Nor should it be the attitude of the world's charity.

AMBITIONS SERVED

Decision by Homer Martin's automobile workers union to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor will not add to the prospects of peace between Mr. Green's national body and Mr. Lewis' CIO.

It may also be doubted that it will relieve the automobile industry from labor stresses and strains. Likewise it may present to the National Labor Relations Board some additional problems which it might well pray it be spared. It does apparently give to the Martin organization the backing of the older national organization of unionized labor, whatever that may be worth to it.

As a means, however, of lessening danger of union competition within big industry, it can hardly be said that this latest realignment is anything to be desired. Industry suffers as an innocent third party when it becomes the victim of jurisdictional disputes between labor leaders. The intensity of the break between the Lewis and Green forces is now augmented by the bitterness which has marked the break between Lewis and Martin.

These things are not good for the country, they are not good for either industry or labor. They are created solely to serve the ambitions of individuals.

Where's the schoolboy, lately in the news, who sees things upside down? We need his O. K. on this new Administration proposition that a debt is an asset.

All day, some days, Tokyo is as peevish as if she had got up on the wrong side of a war.

Following the rule as applied to many virtues, people who oppose common sense haven't any.

The Great Game of Politics

Authority. All that did was to double the amount now available.

ON this proposal Senators Tydings, of Maryland; Taft, of Ohio, and King, of Utah, strongly protested, but were swept aside by the spending forces. Two amendments offered by Senator Taft were rejected. One would have reduced the $800,000,000 to $400,000,000. Twenty-six Senators voted in favor of this, thirty-nine against and thirty-one did not vote at all. The other provided for the appointment of a committee to investigate the whole housing situation and report upon a plan to co-ordinate the five or six separate Government agencies now dealing with this subject. To this Senator Barkley made the silly point that it was a "slap" at Mr. Roosevelt. Supporting the Wagner amendment and the bill, letters were read from Mr. William Green, of the A. F. of L., and Mr. John Lewis, of the C. I. O. The latter wrote that he had but one complaint about the measure—that the $800,000,000 authorized was not enough. The bill was finally passed with only sixteen negative votes.

ORDINARILY this action would have seemed important news. Happening on Thursday, it apparently had no news value at all. The first page of every newspaper in the country was devoted almost exclusively to the King and Queen. The New York Times carried the story on its sixteenth page; most newspapers didn't have space for it at all and the radio commentators couldn't think about anything except royalty that day or for several days thereafter. The result is that an undebated, undisputed and extraordinary extension of the slum clearance-housing policy into the rural field (where the existence of slums had not before been noted), involving a huge additional borrowing authorization, was passed by the Senate with practically no publicity at all. Its passage by the House, with the Green-Lewis endorsement supplementing White House pressure, seems inevitable.

THUS, with almost complete lack of publicity, another immense spending commitment is made by Congress and the Government extends its subsidies into vast areas not previously regarded as connected with the slum clearance-housing schemes. It is true that the actual expenditures will not begin at once. The slowness of these "governmental agencies" is very great and it will be two years at least before any considerable part of the $800,000,000 can be spent. But the authorization, when the House passes the bill, will have been given. The spending automatically follows and nearly a billion more will be added to a debt now above $43,000,000,000.

This authorization comes on top of the $400,000,000 additional party payments injected into the farm bill a few weeks ago. It comes on top of what will exceed a $10,000,000,000 budget for the next fiscal year. To meet this there is no proposal from the Administration and no purpose in Congress to enact a tax bill to carry such a budget. A handful of men—Byrd, Glass, Tydings, Taft, Vandenberg, King, Burke, Adams, Gerry and a few others—stand up and battle for economy, but are overwhelmed by the Administration spenders, backed by the labor and farm lobbies. Unquestionably, too, the economy bloc has been weakened recently by the "third-term-for-Roosevelt" boom, there being many timid members of Congress who would like to vote against the White House wish, but do not think it yet safe to do so.

IF these things do not justify apprehension of inflation it is hard to think what would. If they do not mean that Federal finances are out of control, then the facts have no meaning. If they do not make it clear that control cannot be regained until there is White House leadership of a different kind, then nothing can be made clear. The fact is the Roosevelt Administration is now embarked on a new spending program, intended to be permanent, not temporary, which will put more money out in different ways than ever dreamed of before. The Mead bill, devised by the brilliant Mr. Berle, is the start in a scheme which, under guise of providing credit to small businessmen, will make the Federal Government the great "investment banker" of the country. By insuring bank loans to small borrowers (under a million dollars), the Government will be able to pump money out to individual voters, municipal and state governments and small corporations.

THEY can do this in a politically painless manner because no effort will be made to balance the amount pumped out either by taxes or retrenchment. On the contrary, relief expenditures, farm subsidies, slum clearance and housing appropriations will all be increased. The stage has been reached where to tax, to retrench or even attempt to recover financial equilibrium is impossible for the New Dealers without political collapse. They have no alternative but to spend, and spend they will. Literally, they dare not stop. It is a fantastic situation and the national peril is great. The people as a whole, of course, will not grasp it until the crash comes. No wonder Senator Vandenberg urges that the Republican candidate for President pledge himself to one term only. The man who follows Mr. Roosevelt is either in for the deluge, or if he does what must be done to avert disaster, will array against him practically every organized minority in the country.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By CORA ANTHONY

BEEF prices are now lower than they have been in a year, making it the best meat value with the possible exception of pork loins. Poultry is relatively even cheaper including ducklings, heavy fowls and young chickens. Butter, cheese and eggs are also very reasonable. Most fish and seafood items are inexpensive.

Dry weather is beginning to affect the growth of some foods on the eastern seaboard, particularly peas and berries. Most varieties of berries, sweet cherries, apricots, peaches, plums and melons are now in market. Apples are nearly gone, grapefruit and oranges are less plentiful and banana supplies very little but all are adequate to meet the demand.

Salad and vegetable supplies are generous at attractive price levels.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

Answers: 1. When considered from the standpoint of health, enjoyment and keen competition there is no finer sport for a high school boy than cross-country running, provided, of course, that he is in good health and is properly supervised.
2. Awarded Nobel prize in medicine in 1908 for his contribution to the control of syphilis. He is known to many persons because he once said that the drinking of curdled milk, a habit indulged in by Bulgarians, was largely responsible for the length of their lives. He contributed much to our knowledge of the white blood corpuscles as defenders of the body against disease germs.
3. An English folk remedy for a bleeding wound was to lay cobwebs over it, the filmy sponge encouraging coagulation, as all who have seen this dressing must admit. Since wounds may readily become infected from the dirt on cobwebs, this treatment is condemned by physicians.

ROHM & HAAS NINE
KEEPS ON LEADER'S HEELS

The Rohm and Haas nine kept on the heels of the league-leading Diamond team by whipping the Hall Aluminum nine, 5-3, last evening on Leedom's diamond. It marked the seventh straight loss for the airplane workers.

It was principally the work of Wils Holland which defeated the Hall team last evening. Holland set back the losers with four hits, three of which were bunched in the third for two runs. His other hit was given up in the final frame. Holland fanned eight batters.

Opposed to Holland was Ralph Strump. Strump was effective, especially in the pinches but five errors behind his hurling helped him in his downfall.

Bunny Brunner and Eddie Sullivan had two hits each to lead the Rohm and Haas batters with the stick. One of Brunner's hits was a triple to center.

Rohm and Haas has won six and lost three thus far this season while the Diamond nine has won six and lost but two.

DIAMOND TEAM WINS

Schedule for Tonight
ODD FELLOWS at GRUNDY'S
Umpire, Kervick; Scorer, Tomlinson

"Pete" Kondyra was entirely too wild last evening on Grundy's diamond as the Diamond team romped home with its fifth straight win of the Bristol Twilight League. The Grundy team was the victim with the final score reading: Diamond, 7; Grundy's, 4.

Kondyra walked and hit a batter in the first to help the Diamond team to a tally but in the second walked three and hit a batter which was a great aid in the scoring of three runs for the visitors.

The Grundy hurler then settled down and pitched good ball the remaining distance to the game and only errors enabled the Diamantians to chalk up three other markers.

While all this was going on, "Snake" Whyno had the Grundyites eating out of the palm of his mitts, they failing to get to him until the fourth when "Gige" Dougherty elected himself a committee of one to see to it that Grundy scored twice. He tripped with Stallone on base and then proceeded to steal home to the astonishment of Whyno and the Diamond team.

Thrig's single in the fifth accounted for a pair of tallies but the early lead amassed by the Dynamite boys was too much to overcome.

"Chuck" Klein and Van Lenten played good ball for their respective teams.

CHECKER TEAM WINS
EASILY FROM ROHM & HAAS

Last night the Checker softball team really got serious, and played heads-up ball, defeating the Rohm & Haas ten by the score of 17 to 5.

Kloot Light, who won his second game, allowed only five hits with one walk. The whole Checker team really looked good. John Cole pitched for the losers, with Speck playing a good game. Leading in homers was Booker Johnson and Jones for the Checkers; Coles for R. & H. with one apiece. Bob Moore hit a triple, Johnson and Booker both hit doubles.

The Checker team will play the St. Ann's team on Thursday at Leedom's field.

STOCK CAR RACE IS NEXT
LANGHORNE ATTRACTION

Some unknown garage mechanic or hometown driver may rise to the heights of automobile racing glory on July 4 in the 250 miles of stock car racing on the famous Langhorne Speedway.

Victory in that important classic, which Barney Oldfield, world's greatest professional driver, has consented to direct for Hankinson Speedways, may give some unknown that "big break" thousands of speed enthusiasts have sought for many years. For automobile factory representatives and racing car team managers have already requested choice reservations for the first stock car race ever run on an American Speedway for every-day motorists. These "scouts" say they will interview the cream of the talent appearing here with a view toward signing them for a professional racing career.

Like every professional sport which offers lucrative awards for topnotchers, automobile racing is constantly beseged by those who claim ability to meet the stringent requirements. At the Indianapolis Speedway, where the nation's outstanding drivers compete in the world's No. 1 speed classic, the management is constantly forced to reject numerous petitions from would-be drivers seeking to prove their skill. Ralph Hankinson, operator of some of the nation's most thrilling speedway events the last 29 years, says these letters which he, too, is constantly receiving, prompted him to arrange the all American Stock Car race for the amateur motorist.

"Every day of the racing season," Hankinson said, "I receive letters from boys who are willing to show any extreme of daring to prove their driving ability. Unfortunately, drivers must take the long, difficult road of apprenticeship before attaining the heights offered at Langhorne and Indianapolis."

But the veteran race operator assured the 250 mile stock car classic at Langhorne provides the short cut to racing success to the driver who first flashes under the checkered flag of victory.
